

9th European Conference on Positive Psychology

June 27-30, 2018 / Budapest, Hungary

Ingrid Brdar

University of Rijeka

Ingrid Brdar is professor at the Department of Psychology, Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences at the University of Rijeka, Croatia. Her research focuses on cross-cultural components of happiness, the relationship between life goals and well-being and character strength. She also published papers on coping with school failure, social competence and humor. She collaborates with international research group on a project investigating conceptualization of happiness and meaning across cultures and leads a research project "Determinants and cross-cultural aspects of the construct of happiness". She is Editor in Chief of the Journal of Well-Being Assessment.